Mississippi State University Extension Dairy

Meet Rebecca Keefer (aka Keefer)! She is a senior Agbusiness Major in the Ag Economics department at Mississippi State University. This summer she worked with Dr. Stone on a research project that tested the effectiveness of a feed additive on feed efficiency. She also worked on an economics study evaluating the necessary returns for producers to be able to implement a center pivot irrigation system on their own farms. She co-authored an Extension publication on this topic, due to come out soon.
She will be continuing her economics studies this semester by working with Dr. Stone and Dr. Josh Maples to create some Mississippi-specific dairy budgets.
Her ultimate career goal is to become the commissioner of Agriculture for whatever state she ends up living.
Welcome to the dairy group, Keefer!
